Groussier of a scientific means of tracing the paternity of child-ren who know not their own fathers. is easy to understand with what alarm the news of such a discovery will be received in a country where illegiti-macy is so common as in France. The announcement may possibly cause some tremors of nervousness even in America. The Paris journalists have speedily recognized that nothing could appeal more directly to the interest of their readers, and they have been interview-ing everybody of consequence about the probable truth and effect of the momentous news. It is not surprising that some vehement protests have been printed. It is declared that it is time to call a halt in the relentless march of science when it becomes so presumptuous as to invade domestic secrets, which it has no right to expose.

M. Grouisser affirms with great positiveness that his law is infallible.

M. Berenger, father of the famous law which bears his name, hails the news as the greatest scientific triumph of the century, and declares that it is sure to prove the best conservator of virtue. M. Zola deems that legislation in the mat-ter is impossible. M. Jules Simon, with his customary optimism, affirms his confidence in the law, and believes in applying it, but points out the danger of blackmail. M. Rochefort, editor of Intransiceante, declares that "paternity is like the philosopher's stone. You may look for it as much as you like, but you will never find it." In a single week, as the news spread, M. Grouissier finds himself the most famous man in France, but his position is em barrassing, not to say dangerous. He is overwhelmed not only by requests to apply the law in individual cases, but by threats of direct evil unless be abandons his inquisitorial investiga-tions. The Pall Mall Gazette printed the news yesterday, and now the sub-ject is overshadowing all others in London clubs and other places where men RECOVERED A DEAD MAN'S WATCH. A dispatch from Springfield, O., says that Detective John T. Norris on Saturday recovered the gold watch of Genera Albert Sydney Johnston, which had been lost 32 years.

As General Johnston lay dying at Shiloh, April 6, 1862, a Union soldier went through his clothes and took the watch. The family has been searching for it ever since. The soldier kept it in his possession a year, and then deposited it with John Fisher, of Canton, ill., for $100. It has been in Fisher's keeping ever since. When Detective Norris was arrested in Richmond three months ago, Fisher, who had been fleeced by a gold brick swindler, went to Norris's rescue. In going through the State Capitol at Richmond he saw General Johnston's picture. Fisher said to Norris, "I have that man's watch," and told the story to Detective Norris. He told ex-Govern-or Fitzhugh Lee, of Virginia, who prevailed on Norris to secure the watch. On the inside cover of the watch is General Johnston's name, A. S. Johnston, C. S. A., scratched by himself.
